

David Salsburg

Partner, Founder & President

As Gresham's Co-Founder and President, David focuses his attention on enhancing the client experience, maintaining moderate, sustainable growth, and upholding the the firm's culture, as well as on other strategic firm initiatives. David also oversees the firm's compliance, operations, and financial activities.

As a member of Gresham's Operating Committee, David serves alongside the Chief Executive Officer, the Chief Client Officer, and Chief Human Resource Officer to shape the firm's direction, nurture culture, and manage overall operations.

Prior to Gresham, David advised high-net-worth clients at Brownson, Rehms & Foxworth, Inc., and served as a Senior Manager in Ernst & Young's personal financial planning group.

Outside of work, David enjoys traveling the world, collecting (and drinking) fine wines and trying not to turn his ankle on the tennis court. He is not the same David Salsburg who has a PhD in statistics and wrote the popular science book, "The Lady Tasting Tea; How Statistics Revolutionized Science in the Twentieth Century", but he wishes he was.

Gresham Partners Operating Committee

EDUCATION BACKGROUND

- B.A., Psychology, University of Pennsylvania
- B.S., Marketing, University of Pennsylvania
- M.B.A., Northwestern University Kellogg School of Management

