

Robert Nanney

Chief Compliance Officer

As Gresham's Chief Compliance Officer, Rob is responsible for the firm's compliance and information security programs.

Rob joined Gresham in 2020 as the firm's Chief Compliance Officer. In this role, he oversees Gresham's compliance and information security programs, helping the firm operate in accordance with applicable securities laws, regulations, and industry best practices. Rob works closely with the firm's Operating Committee to promote a culture of ethics, integrity, and accountability while strengthening the firm's regulatory compliance framework. Through ongoing oversight, monitoring, and testing of Gresham's compliance and information security controls, he helps ensure that the firm fulfills its fiduciary obligations to its clients and that clients' interests remain the firm's highest priority in every aspect of its advisory business.

Prior to joining Gresham, Rob worked at Chicago Equity Partners as chief compliance officer and general counsel.

Outside of work, Rob enjoys exploring new destinations with his family and listening to live music. He can often be found coaching his children's sports teams on various courts, fields, and diamonds.
