

Ted Neild Participates in Interview with The Wall Street Journal

CHICAGO – February 1, 2018 – Gresham enjoys keeping a low profile, so it was a departure for Ted Neild, our president and chief investment officer, to participate in a conversation with the chief investment officers of two other financial advisory firms for an article published in The Wall Street Journal this past December titled Where to Put Your Money in the Next Year.

The three of them addressed questions posed by Daisy Maxey of The Wall Street Journal on topics ranging from their expectations for markets in 2018, to how much investors should allocate to non-U.S. investments, to their views on bitcoin and cryptocurrencies. You can read this short article at <http://webreprints.djreprints.com/4271980719382.html>